REV. MR. VOSBURGH

Sixth Day's Proceedings in His Trial at Jersey City.

ANTIMONIAL POISONING.

Closing of the Prosecution and the Opening for the Defence.

The trial of Rev. George B. Vosburgh, of the Madison Avenue Baptist Church, for alleged wife poisoning, was continued in the Rudson County Court of Terminer yesterday, at Jersey City, before Judges Knapp, Garrettson, Quaife and Brinkerhoff. Although the sixth day of the trial, the court room was even more crowded than on any of the days last week. Prominent clergymen from this city and vicinity occupied seats within the railing. Among them were Rev. O. H. Hazard, of Highland Falls; L. J. Bridgman, father of the paster of the Madison Avenue Baptist Church, this city; Rev. C. H. Benson, of the Cranford Methodist Episcopal Church, who oc-cupied Rev. Mr. Vosburgh's pulpit on Sunday, and Rev. L. R. Dunn, D.D. City Physician McGill, brother of the prosecutor; and Chief of Police Nathan also sat within the railing. Rev. Mr. Vosburgh sat near his counsel and his face broke into siniles whenever any one spoke to him or shook his hand.

PROPESSOR DOKEMUS STILL TESTIPYING At the opening of Court Professor Doremus took the stand and resumed his testimony as follows:-Anti-mony is discharged very rapidly; the quantity will diminish day by day; tartar emetic is more soluable in warm water than in cold.

Q. Weuld the presence of antimony indicate anything abnormal in the system? A. It would, sir. The witness was cross-examined by Senator Winfield, Professor Morton sitting at the Schator's elbow prompting the questions. The witness testified:-I cannot tell whether the samples of antimony shown to me had passed through the human body; antimony may be discharged in process of vomiting, by the kidneys, in the freces; portions through the skin pores or running sores; wherever they are, it is dislodged from the system. Q. Give us a reason? A. Vegetable acids, such as tartaric, exche and citric, used in lemon and orange. have been taken to determine how they are discharged from the body, and a portion of such acids, as dis charged, bave been found unchanged.

Professor Charles R. Doremus, son of the previous witness, was next sworn. He testified:-I am protessor of chemistry and toxicology in the Buffalo University and instructor in Bellovue College; there are two kinds of poisoning by tartar emetic, acute and chronic; in acute there is severe and violent vomit ing shortly after taking the poison; in some cases after administering an antidoto or any mechanical metic, vomiting has in some instances not come for many hours; in chronic, there is a metallic taste, vomiting, slight purging, followed by constipation, quickened puise, respiration rapid but not heavy.

ANTIMONIAL POISONING.

The examination of Professor Charles R. Doremus was resumed after recess, when he testified as follows:—The dose of antimony is generally unknown; womiting ensues immediately after the dose is taken; poison may be found after death in the intestines, liquid contents of the stomach and in the tissues; among the leading authorities on antimonial poison are Taylor, "Guy's Hospital Reports," Taylor's "Medical Jurisprudence," Taylor's work on "Poison" and Otto on "Poisons;" I have examined all of these authorities and others, and I have tabulated them; the tabulated statoment contains fifty-four cases, including many cases of supposed antimonial poisoning; all of them sustain my statements as to the symptoms.

The witness was then cross-examined by Mr. Win-The witness was then cross-examined by Mr. Winfloid as follows:—I am twenty-six years of age; if graduated in 1870; I studied parts of medical science;
I graduated from the College of New York and the Hetideberg University; I never practised medicine previous to three weeks ago; I could give a list of cases of antimonial poisoning, though I never had a case of antimonial poisoning; I have known tartar emetic to be administered in my father's family in a case of cramp.

MR. SICKLES' DAMAGING TERTIMONY.

Governor Bedie next recalled James A. Sickles, who testified:—I know Homer Vosburgh; during the last week I was at Mr. Vosburgh's house I had no tak with him that I remember.

Q. Did you say to him, "George Vosburgh is too proud; he thinks himself better than other people; he needs bringing down a peg or two, and I will do it?" A. I deny the latter part of it; the force part I admit, with an explanation.

Mr. Winfield—That is all.

District Attorney McGill—Go on with the explana-

Witness-I saw that Mrs. Vosburgh wanted something to eat and I did not want to give it to her while Mr. Vosburgh was present; I asked him to take a walk to get him out and he wouldn't go, his wife then asked him to go to his stady and take a smoke; he went, appearing very angry, and when going out said, "Year, I will go and I will say;" it was then that I remarked that theorie Vosburgh was proud and over himself that the the theorie of the theory of the that it is a single that the theory of the that it is a single that the that the sould have been and that he would rather submit them to the Court and jury on paper. The presentor told him tog on, and Mr. Sickies continued:—While at home one day in 1870 we were preparing to go to the Contennial; I was in the hall and heard Mr. Vosburgh say to his with the that and heard Mr. Vosburgh say to his with the hall and heard Mr. Vosburgh say to his without the things of the said that Mr. Vosburgh say to his without the said that Mr. Vosburgh say to his without the said that Mr. Vosburgh say to his without a said that Mr. Vosburgh say to his without a said that Mr. Vosburgh was overboaring.

The statement created quite a commotion in the court room and the accused pastor cyed the without very floredly. The State these rested.

The defence made no opening address, but called las Vosburgh, the defendant's sister, who testified—I rested at Stockport, Columbia county, N. Y.; I visited my brother's house on January 5 last; Mrs. Vosburgh was then sulforing from naucea and vomiting and rheumatism; her rheumatic condition was at that time improved; Mrs. Vosburgh was then sulforing from naucea and vomiting and rheumatism; her rheumatic condition was at that time improved; Mrs. Vosburgh was then sulforing from naucea and womiting and rheumatism; her rheumatic condition was at that time improved; Mrs. Vosburgh was then sulforing from house and will be condition was at that time improved; Mrs. Vosburgh was the mobing attended by a claritory and in Mrs. Mosburgh and Mrs. Vosburgh is moment in healt; taw his presentation in the ter from her in which she said, "Telegraph me as soon as Mrs. Vosburgh is dead and I will go on and hold high carnival mass with you."

To the Court—if I could remember I would state; it was while I was very much excited, and I have no receiver.

it was while I was very much excited, and I have no recollection.

PHYSICIAN AND MINISTER.

Dr. James Harkness was then called and testified:—
I reside at No. 30 Morris street and practice medicine; I met Dr. Cornell twice at my own house; no called twice upon me in relation to Mra Vosburgh; I think the first time was Thursday, February 14; as far as I recollect he told me that his patient vomited soon after anything entered her stomach; what she vomited was undigested; that there was nausea, pan and burning in the stomach, and to some extent in the viscers or the bowels.

Cross-examined by Attorney General Stockton, Dr. Harkness testified that when he went before the Grand Jury he could not remember all the symptoms told him by Dr. Cornell; after consideration he had remembered all of them. I practise medicine when people call upon me, but I am also a minister of the Gospel; I am the pastor of the Third Preblyterian Church in Jersey City; I bave a diploma from the New York College of Hommopathy; I can't tell which profession takes up the most of my time; it depends upon circumstances (laughter); I have no physician's sign on my door; Dr. Cornell called upon me, it is my impression, after dinner; I fix the date of Dr. Cornell's visit because it was the first Thursday siter the meeting of the Society of Ministers of Jersey City, at which something was Said about Mrs. Vosburgh's sickness: the ministers did not discuss ner case; they only mentioned in some way or another that sho was very sick.

Ephraim S. Wells was next called. He testified:— I am a druggist and reside in the Bergen section of Jersey City; I have been in Jersey City fifteen years; I had a conversation with Dr. Cornell in regard to antimony; it was a few weeks ago; ne did not ask me whether antimony was a mineral or vegetable; he asked me whether tartar emetic was over found in its native state; I told him, if I told him anything, that it was not.

DR. Carpentes's Tastimony.

state; I told him, if I told him anything, that it was not.

DR. CARPENTER'S TASTINONY.

The defence then piaced Dr. Benjamin D. Carpenter on the stand. He testified:—I reside at No. 14 Monticello avenue, Jersey City; I have resided in Hudson county about is years; I graduated in 1846 from the medical department of the New York University; I have been acquainted with Rev. George B. Voaburgh about a year; I first met nim at his house, where I also met his wife; I was first called to attend Mrs. Vosburgh in May or June of last year; she was suffering from rheumatism and gout; the rheumatism made it difficult for her to walk; it was some time in the following November that I ceased my visite; as the rheumatism began to improve she exhibited signs of indigestion and vomited; that was about a fortingth before I ceased visiting her; that, I considered, was the gouty rheumatism attacking the stomach; she told me that she had vomited profusely from drinking iemonade; I think she said she made considered, was the gooty rheumatism attacking the stomach; she told me that she had vomited profusely from drinking iemonade; I think she said she made the lemonade herself; any large amount of food or drink in the stomach at that time would have excited vomiting; the disease, transferring itself from the hands and feet to the stomach, would have produced vomiting; rheumatism, when transferred to the stomach, frequently produces death; after I left she passed into the hands of a clairvoyant; I next saw her on Christmas Day at the house of Mrs. Williams, on Brinkerhoff street; she was there to dinner; she was suffering then much more physically; she was somewhat emacated; in a gouty stomach the dig. ston is almost entirely arrested; Christmas night she ate yery largely; I think we had a little champagne at dinner; in a woman in her condition I suppose her appetite was a morbid one; she probably wouldn't have eaten such a dinner at home under other circumstances; I was sent for to visit her again on the 1st day of March last; Dr. Peddie, of Philadelphia, was there.

The Court here adjourned until to-day.

NEW JERSEY'S BORGIA.

BEGINNING OF THE TRIAL OF EMMA BETHEL POR POISONING MR. AND MRS. BISHOP-THE HOUSEKEEPER WHO WANTED TO MARRY THE SON OF HER MASTER AND MISTRESS. CAMDEN, N. J., May 20, 1878.

To-day was the third day set apart for the opening of the trial of Mrs. Emma Bethel, charged with the poisoning of old Mr. and Mrs. Bishop, some weeks since, at Berlin, N. J. The case was called at ton o'clock, and close upon the convening of the Court the defendant entered, looking a little careworn. As she took her seat her counsel arose and made charges against the Sheriff for informality n drawing the list of jurors, by which two postpone ments have already been necessary in the case. Judge Woodhull declined to make any ruling in the case, as there was no apparent collusion between the Sheriff and any one on the list.

Her counsel again made another objection to the effect that he was unable to attend the trial to its conclusion, as he would be called to another case tomorrow in another county. After some discussion the counsel were instructed by the Court to proceed and the Sheriff proceeded to call the names of the jurors in the panel, and a jury was formed without much delay.

THE CASE AGAINST MRS. BETHEL. The counsel for the Commonwealth opened by giv-ing a brief history of the case. Some time in Japuary last Mrs. Hannah Bishop was taken suddenly ill with every symptom of arsenious poisoning. Her daughter, Hattle Willetts, was sent for to nurse her, and under her care Mrs. Bishop convalescent. She was then in charge of Emma Bothel, This was on the 12th. and Mrs. Bishop died the next day. Reckless Bishop, the other victim, who was taken sick with similar symptoms and nursed by Mrs. Bethel, died on the 12th of April. The bodies of the deceased were ex-lith of April. The bodies of the deceased were exhumed, and sufficient traces of arsenic were detected to destroy life.

Mrs. Bethel is a woman of about thirty years. She has an intelligent, rather pleasant face, especially when she smiles, which she frequently did during the proceedings to-day. She is not pretty, but she would be if her face were not so thin and her ears so prominent. She has a small mouth and delicate features. She has a pinkish complexion, dark hair, and trown eyes, which are bright and expressive. In figure she is slight and tall, and she has nervous hands. She is said to be a widow, and it is alleged that the motive she had in poisoning the old couple, for whom she was housekeeper, was to marry their son, for whom she had an attachment, which was opposed by Mr. and Mrs. Bishop.

THE FAMILY PHYSICIAN'S EVIDENCE.

Dr. Daniel Stout, on being sworn, testified that he resides in Berlin, Camden county, and has for thirty-one years; is a physician, having graduated in March, 1847, from Jefferson College, Philadelphia, and had been practising in Berlin since that time; know the Bishops, Reckless and Hannah, who resided the family; on February 25 hast was called to attend Hannah Bishop; found her up stairs in bed; she had been vomiting, and had a severo burning pain her stomach and could not retain anything in her stomach; gave her substitute of bismuth and sulphate of morphia, and, finding her unable to retain anything in her stomach and, finding her unable to retain anything, applied a mustard plaster and finality fly blisters; attended the case three days; at the close of the first her condition was unsittered; the next day (Toesday), in the morning, the returns of voming were further apart and noticed no affections of the limbs, and continued the same treatment, thinking all the time the disease was inflammation of the stomach; gave a dose of magnesia on Wedness, on the proving the state of the proving of the state of the proving of the first hay for the disease was inflammation of the stomach; day morning, and saw a decided improvement, and in the evening found her still somewhat improving; on Thursday morning side was still improving; first saw Mrs. Harriot Willets after she had been sent for on Saurday, the sixth day; Mrs. Bethel was attending Mrs. Bishop utuil Mrs. Willets came; I gave directions to administer the medicines to Mrs. Bothel util Mrs. Willets came; asked Mrs. Bethel if she had given the medicines; she said yes, but that Mrs. Bishop retused to take them, as sne could not retain them on her stomach; the diet ordered at first was beef too and gruel, and a little lemonade to drink; when Mrs. Willets came she took charge and stayed until the next Mordsy, March II; after Mrs. Willets came nor symptoms improved and she became convalescent; on Tuesday Mrs. Willets ich, and I saw Mrs. Bishop that morning about ten o'ciock; Mrs. Bishop that the setting room; heard Mrs. Bishop omnting; in the evening called and found Mrs. Bishop sinking. Mrs. Bethel having charge of her; at four the next afternoon went to see Mrs. Bishop and found her dying, sinking very inst with involuntary discharges; she died at seven o'ciock that evening of noute inflammation of the stemach and paralysis; she had complained of paralysis of both feet shortly previous to death; have not had any personal experience with cases of arsenious poinoning, but know the symptoms—vaniting, burning of stomach, taste in mouth and loss of use of bands and feet; found in Mrs. Bishop many of these symptoms, such as intense thirst, vomiting, berning at pit of stomach, loss of use perience with cases of arsenious poisoning, but know the symptoms—vointing, burning of stomach, taste in mouth and loss of use of hands and feet; tound in Mrs. Bishop many of these symptoms, such as intense thirst, comiting, burning at pit of stomach, loss of use of feet and, toward the inter part, of her hands.

Anorther Physician Testifies.

Samuel H. Johnson, M. D., of Berlin, N. J., testified that he had practiced medicine at Berlin for tweive years; knew both Hannah and Reckless Bishop; I recently made a post-mortem examination of the body of Hannah Bishop; it was about two weeks after the death of Reckless Bishop; I was present at the exhumation of the body and held ga post-mortem examination with Dr. Miner, of Hundenfield; we took out a portlon of the viscera, a portlon of the liver, one kidney and the stomach; we piaced them in a glass jar, seated it, and gave it to Professor Stephens, of Grardi College, Philadelphila; I did not attend Hannah Bishop; I had attended Rockless Bishop.

Gross-examined—Mrs. Whiletts and George Bishop requested me to make the post-mortem after Insisted upon it; there was no Coroner's inquest; I made known my asspicions to a magistrate; I did it with the knowledge of the plane; the family employed me to make the post-mortem; I had no official authority from a magistrate, but made the post-mortem with his knowledge; Dr. Whitsms, graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, and the unidguager who buried her accompanied me; the body had been buried six weeks; the gravedinger and the undertaker had opened the grave and lifted the coffin out on tresties before we arrived; the hid of the coffin out on tresties before we arrived; the hid of the coffin out on tresties before we arrived; the hid of the coffin out on tresties before we arrived; the hid of the coffin out on tresties before we arrived; the blot to recognize the body as that of Hannah Bishop; I made a transverse cut across the peritoneum, when I took out the viscera, the liver, the stomach, &c.; I placed them directly into the glass jar, which I myself scaled up, at my residence shortly after, without letting it go out of my keeping; Dr. Miller and myself then took the train and came up to Philadelphia; when we got to Philadelphia we took a car and went to the Girard College, when, finding that Professor Stephens was not there, we took the jar to his nouse and left it with his wife.

THE CHEMICAL EXPERT ON THE STAND.

Professor Lemuel Stephens was then called. He stated that he lived in Green street, Philadelphia, and was a graduate of Harvard College; since 1843 has been a professor of chemistry, first at the Western University, of Pittsburg, for four years; for twenty-eight years has been professor of chemistry at the Girard College; I have given toxicology great attention for twenty-four years; have been employed as expert in arsenical poisoning in two previous fatal cases in Harrisburg six or seven years ago; on the 22d of April on arriving at my house I found a jar which had been left there during my absence; this jar, containing the remains of the woman, was larger than that with the portions of the man's body in; I lound a human stomach, empited of its contents, a portion of hiver, one kidney, a portion of the small and large intestines; the outle was marked with the name of Mrs Hannah Bishop; immediately on opening the jar I examined the organs; the mucous membrane of the stomach was highly reddened, with a thick, dark, mucous substance, and two patches of yellowish color.

Absence indicated of amenica of a precise of income contains of a precise of a precise of the stomach was highly reddened, with a thick, dark, mucous substance, and two patches of yellowish color.

ARENIC INDICATED.

These yellow spots suggested to my mind the presence of arsenic, the decay of sulphide of arsenic often assuming this color; the interior reduces of the stomach was also peculiar; on April 27 I cut off about a quarter of each of the four organs, cut them up finely and digested them—that is, put them in warm water with one-eighth of muriatic acid; they were digested until Saturday night; I then filtered the liquid, and bringing it to a boiling temperature I inserted a slip of copper foli; this motal became a steel-blue metallic color; this indicated the presence of arcenic, but not with sufficient certainty to say so positively.

The witness then described the further process of putting in zinc and evolving hydrogen gas, which was ignited. A piece of porcelain held in the flame would show if there was no arsenic in the gas. The final experiment, showing a metallic spot on the porcelain, proved the presence of arsenic.

Witness applied hypo-chloride of soda, which dissolved the spot, and alterward sulphite of ammonium, which did not dissolve the spot; the latter dissolves antimony and does not dissolve arsenic; the former dussolves arsenic and does not dissolve antimony; these two experiments, therefore, showed that arsenic was present; the first test with the copper is known as Reinsch's test; the second test is called Marsh's test.

The witness described his further experiments,

Marsh's test.

The winess described his further experiments, seven in all, in detail, and reiterated his conclusion that arsente was undoubtedly present in the stomach of the deceased. The witness concluded:—I cannot form an idea of the whole amount of arsenic in the organs; judging from my analysis there was 199-100 of a grain in the liver; what is found is only in transitis; there is never more than two grains found in the liver; arsenic is easily traced; I had a case where a woman had been in the grave three years and nine months; and the liver and kidneys were quite well preserved; between two and three grains will generally cause death; the symptoms of arsenical poisoning are depression, hausea, then vomiting without relief, inability to keep anything on the stomach, constriction, pain extending from the bowels to the intestines and usually purging, cramps, flesh generally cold and clammy, and toward the last convulsions, paralysis, and the patient sinks under exhaustion; all these symptoms are not always present; precine which is found in the stomach has not yet been absorbed into the circulation; the arsenic which has caused death is generally found in the liver; there must have been a large amount of arsenic in the body from what I found; there was a fatal dose in what I detected; subnitrate of bismuth does not contain arsenic.

On cross-examination the witness said there were tain arsence.

On cross-examination the witness said there were cases of poisoning by bismuth, with symptoms like areenical poisoning; he could not see how arsenic could possibly be in subnitrate of bismuth.

SUPPOSED POISONING.

Anton Bierling, who was recieved in the St. Francis Hospital, Jersey City, on Friday, gied from the effects of his illness, the symptoms of which indicated poisoning. The case will be investigated by Coroner Gannon and County Physician Converse.

A HORRIBLE DELUSION.

A tall, lean man, dressed as a laborer, walked through several streets in the Tenth precinct yesterday, and was behaving in a most remarkable way when an officer caught sight of him. With the strice and air of the melodramatic villato, as presented on the stage, the stranger would move along a few yards, then stop, glare back at some imaginary pursuer, shake his fist and apparently seek pursuer, shake his fist and apparently sook a hasty flight, which generally ended in a repetition of the pantomime. The officer took him into custody, and then learned that instead of being a furtive from justice he was only a lunatic, it is name was James O. Boyle. He is a laboring man, who says he lives in Philadelphia, and his manna consists of an absorbing fear that he is being followed by two women from the city of his residence, who propose inveigling him into matrimonial entanglements. He was held by Judge Otterbourg for medical examination.

THE FERRON MURDER.

the schooner Mary B. Harris, on which Bernard Ferron, the boatman, was murdered by John Wright, vesterday received a letter from the father of young Wright. It stated that John was always a good, peaceable boy, and never quarrelsome at home. He has been in business for eight years, and recently gave a chattel morigage on the machinery for $400, and not believe that John had told the truth, and that he had done the deed in self-defence. The father also said that he had received a letter from Captain Crowley, which stated that John was the best boy he ever had with him. The schooner Mr. John H. Lewis, of No. 31 South street, agent of from Captain Crowley, which stated that John was the best boy he ever had with him. The schooner has not yet arrived, but it is though that this is owing to the late inclement weather. Ercest Tabbott, the snipmate of the prisoner, who is at present on the Harris, and also Captain Crowley, will be seen by the police as soon as the versel arrives, for the purpose of learning whether they can throw any light on the case.

WEDDED FOEs.

SUFT FOR SLANDER.

The suit of Francisco Coschima against John Chertozze for alleged slander was called for trial in the Supreme Court, Kings county, before Judge Pratt yesterday. The plaintiff, who claims $10,000 damages, is a ship changler, residing at No. 15 Union street Brooklyn, and married to the widow of his former partner, Antonio Farioni. On July 11, 1877, at or near the corner of Beaver and William streets, in this city, the complaint alleges that the defendant said in his hearing referring to the plaintiff (in the Italian isaguage), "You miamous Jesuit; you rascal and low fellow; I know you are able or capable of doing anything. You have poisoned your former partner." The plaintiff, who is a native of Deimatia, in Austria, testified that he did not know what his partner died of; his death he did not know what his partner died of; his death coccurred about ten years ago, and followed a siekness of ten days. He married the widow two years after. Counsel asked the plaintiff the question, "Did you poison him?" and he replied with emphasis, "No, sir." The trial will be resumed to-day. KEILER, WORMSER & KINGSBURY, TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD :-

Will you kindly insert the following letter, this day received by me from Judge Choate, in view of the erroneous impression created by the partial report of the opinion in the case of Keller, Wormser & Kingsbury in your issue of the 19th inst. A. BLUMENSTIEL.

in your issue of the 19th inst. A. BLUMENSTIEL.

My Dean Mn. Bluernstell:

I have your letter of to-day and regret extremely that a publication of fragments of my opinion in the case of Keller, Wormer & Kingsbury has given an erroneous impression as to your connection with the case.

I thought it necessary in my opinion to reprebend the practice alleged to exist, and defended at the lar by connect other than yourself, of signing and verifying creditors, petitions before they were completed. Nothing was shown or charged by counsel in the argument to have been done by you personally in this case from which I received any impression legarious to your professional homer.

You are at liberty to make any use you may wish of this letter.

THE NOYES TRIAL.

Another tedious day was passed yesterday at the trial of Benjamin Noyes in the Newark Court, belore Judge Depue and a jury. The stand was occupied the entire day by Mr. Noyes, the State plying him with the prosecution was to show that A. G. Fay, a director in the National Company and its putative counsel, was Noyes' agent in the reinsurance of the New Jersey Mutual and its receipt of the assets. Noyes declared on the stand, however, and in the most positive manner that he had nothing to do with Fay being paid anything for the reinsurance and had not any knowledge of such an arrangement at any time. Noyes was still on the stand when the Court adjourned.

It is true some weakness was shown at the opening, but this was speedily recovered from under the stimulus of the foreign news which came threatsning fire and sword, even as it is likely to come to morrow breathing "peace, good will toward men." question is getting to be a nulsance, and the Temple of Janus, with its doors swinging open one day for war and closing the next for peace, is little better than a disorderly house that deserves suppression at the hands of the turopean police. However, whether the news was true or false (and the stiffness of consols lead to the latter belief), the market was strengthened as noted and a recovery made which benefited prices right through the list. The coal carriers were among the strongest and most active stocks in the day's dealings; the unexpected capacity for cohesiveness exhibited by dition to the price of the product which will at least enable the companies to make the two ends tonic in strengthening quotations. As was predicted on Sunday, considerable attention was directed to the usually dormant C., C. and I. C. property, with the result of advancing the bonds three to three and a half per cent and creating a lively upward speculation in the stock. It is claimed that the running expenses of the line have been reduced about 30 per cent, and that the road is earning more than the interest upon its bonds. New Jersey Central as one of the reconstructed orippies is likewise asserting its ability to put its best foot foremost, and was successful enough to-day to gain nearly two points upon the for reorganization and the assistance of the bears whe required stock for purposes of their own were the leverage that holated the price from $1% to 23%.
